

ATTITUDE OF DEFAUCE WILL BE MET BY ALLIES BY STRICT MEASURES

Allies Will First Send the List of Accused Germans Direct to Berlin, Following Von Lersner's Refusal to Transmit the Message—Von Lersner Has Left Paris.

RELATIONS HAVE COME TO CRISIS

The German Cabinet Is Declared Through Minister of Defense Noske to Have Expressed Seeming Defiance to the Allies—Council of Ambassadors Makes No Mention of Its Plans.

Paris, Feb. 5.—Relations between the allied powers and Germany seem to have arrived at a crisis as a result of the refusal of Baron von Lersner, head of the German delegation here, to forward to Berlin the names of Germans whose extradition is demanded by the entente. This incident apparently finds an echo in the attitude of the Berlin cabinet, which is reported in London dispatches to have expressed through Gustav Noske, minister of defense, seeming defiance to his payers. Baron von Lersner left for the German capital last night.

The list of Germans accused of violations of the laws of war whose extradition is contemplated by the allies will be sent to Berlin direct by the council of ambassadors. It is pointed out here that measures intended to compel Germany to carry out the extradition clauses of the Versailles treaty will be adopted, but there is no intimation as to their nature.

Paris, Feb. 5 (Havas).—Refusal of Baron von Lersner, head of the German peace delegation, to transmit to Berlin the list of persons whose extradition is demanded by the allies is considered by Paris newspapers as a personal incident. There is evident, however, a disposition on the part of the allies to ask whether, notwithstanding the disapproval of the German government of the baron's action, it will not tend to encourage the national movement in Germany. They also speculate on the question whether the Bauer cabinet has not conceived a hope that the incident might induce the allies to reconsider their decision.

Fears are expressed that the action of Baron von Lersner may still further strain the situation between Germany and the allies, but journals are unanimous in demanding that the allies must profit by the incident and "speak resolutely and clearly" in exacting the execution of the clauses of the Versailles treaty.

Suggestions are made by the Matin and Victoria that the allies in the event of Germany's continued refusal to surrender those accused of war crimes, could continue to occupy the left bank of the Rhine and collect taxes while there.

Paris, Feb. 5.—The council of ambassadors, after its meeting last night issued a statement saying that the decision of the allies with regard to Germans whose extradition is demanded for war crimes would be communicated direct to Berlin.

CEILING FELL ON SCHOOL BOY.

Fire Department Had to Be Called Before Boy Was Extricated.

Boston, Feb. 5.—The collapse of a ceiling in a class room of the George T. Angell school in Roxbury today caused injuries to one boy. The fact that there was no school session because of a storm probably saved injuries to many pupils. A teacher and five boys were in the room. The lad hurt was caught beneath the ceiling, and the school janitor, unable to extricate him, called on the fire department for help.

The boy, Scipio Miller, a negro, suffered a cut in the head, but his condition was not serious. The school committee ordered the building to be closed to all sessions, pending an investigation of the accident and inspection to determine the fitness of the building for occupancy.

FORT GREBLE POST EXCHANGE BURNED

Newport, R. I., Feb. 5.—The post exchange at Fort Greble, together with the contents, was totally destroyed early this morning. The commanding officer praised the men for preventing the spread of the fire to the headquarters, service club and post hospital. ## VERMONT'S 108 "FLU" CASES SCATTERED

State Board of Health Reported to Be Doing Everything in Its Power to Check Spread of the Disease.

Burlington, Feb. 5.—All the district health officers in the state were present yesterday for a conference at the headquarters of the state board of health. The board is continuing its monthly meeting of the state board last evening. The district health officers met yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the state board and talked over many problems in connection with their work, including better ways of quarantining, and the use of different kinds of forms for reporting.

In connection with the state board meeting, there was a discussion of the "flu" situation in Vermont. There are not enough cases in the state to make the situation very dangerous, and these cases are pretty well scattered, but the state board is doing everything in its power to keep the disease from spreading and becoming an epidemic such as prevailed in the fall of 1918 and such as has started this year in other places.

There were 118 cases of influenza reported in Vermont during the month of January. Albany had the largest number of any one place, there being 37 reported from that town. Rutland is next with 15 cases. Only two cases have been reported in Burlington during the month of January, and there have been no other cases in Chittenden county. There were 35 cases reported from Rutland county, the town of Castleton having four, Pittsford 10, Poultney four and Rutland 15.

Influenza cases in other counties of the state were reported as follows: Bennington 10, Caledonia 12, Grand Isle 37, Orange 12, Orleans 3, Washington 1, Windham 2, Windsor 3.

TRAINS STUCK IN SNOWDRIFTS

Transportation Service in Southern New England Seriously Affected

NORTHEAST BLIZZARD SWEEP SECTION

Conditions on Coast Reminiscent of Storm of November, 1898

Boston, Feb. 5.—A northeast blizzard, the velocity of which ran from 36 to 64 miles an hour, put southern New England under seven inches of snow before noon today. As an atmospheric disturbance, the storm was the worst of the season, but its effect on the public was not so serious as other storms because of moderate temperatures.

Transportation services were snowed under and the streets of Boston, not yet cleared of recent snows because of a shortage of laborers, gained further accumulation. Weather bureau officials said the snowfall would continue to-night.

The storm snowed in most of the southern New England cities and towns. Trains on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad were stopped at Baintree by the snow, and at West Weymouth two trains were stalled behind snow drifts, which they could not pierce. Trolley service was dead south of Quincy.

Schools were closed and industrial plants in many instances shut up shop or ran on curtailed schedules because operatives were unable to get to work. At Hull, the coast guardmen reported conditions that were reminiscent of the storm of November, 1898.

Reports from Atlantic highlands and other marine observation points along the coast were that the storm was the worst in years. The tide was high and, driven by a 50-mile northeasterly gale, was pounding the beaches and threatening in many places to undermine summer houses. So marine casualties were reported but the condition of the weather was such that captains of incoming ships were holding off in deep water to ride out the gale.

Three Long Island Sound steamships were fast in the ice to near New Rochelle, and sound shipping was practically at a standstill as a result of the storm.

The vessels in the ice were the Maine, which left New York yesterday afternoon for Bridgeport, Conn., the New Hampshire, from New London for New York, and the New Bedford, from New York for New Bedford. All three reported that they were not in great danger.

NEW JERSEY HARD HIT.

Storm, Which Started Tuesday Night, Continued To-day.

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—Eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware today were still in the grip of the storm, which started shortly after midnight Tuesday. A combination of sleet, snow and wind that at some points reached a velocity of 56 miles an hour, made the storm the severest of the winter. Railroad trains were delayed, schedules demoralized and shipping on the Delaware river virtually at a standstill.

The storm in New Jersey started with rain, but quickly froze, and under the six or more inches of snow and sleet, it is a coating of ice, making walking difficult. Many persons were hurt by falling on the treacherous pavements.

Jersey seashore resorts were hard hit. Gale and high tides at Atlantic City and Cape May inundated streets and flooded cellars. Heavy damage was reported at Cape May.

Four schooners and a yacht broke from their moorings at Lewis, Del., crashed into the iron pier and were badly damaged, while at Rehoboth beach more than a thousand feet of the board walk and several small pavilions were swept away by the tide.

SNOW IN VIRGINIA.

But Heaviest Snowfall Reported Was in Pennsylvania.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—States along the Atlantic seaboard from southern New England to Virginia were snowbound today as a result of the weather bureau announced that the heaviest snowfall in Pennsylvania, where from 11 to 12 inches was registered. The fall in New York City was six inches, and in Maryland and northern Virginia, it was about five inches.

The snow was accompanied by sleet and a high wind. The snowbound area extended as far west as the upper Ohio valley, but the fall in the western section was not as heavy as it was along and near the coast. Moderate temperatures prevailed generally and in some sections this morning the snow had turned into a fine rain.

RHODE ISLAND SNOWBOUND.

Fall of Eight Inches of Snow Tied Up Trolley Service.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 5.—Traffic generally throughout the state was crippled today by the worst storm of the winter. About eight inches of snow fell. Drifts were reported eight to 10 feet high in places and the maximum wind velocity was 32 miles. Suburban trolley service was entirely out of commission in many instances.

THICK ICE ENCOUNTERED

Among the Islands Off the Coast of Maine.

DOG AND EAGLE HAD SHARP TUSSELE.

Portland, Me., Feb. 5.—Successful raid by four eagles on flocks of wild ducks striving to find something edible along the levee shores of Cumberland and Falmouth yesterday, was followed by a desperate battle between one of these birds of prey and a small dog in a thickly settled portion of this city. The dog came off the victor after the two had rolled about in the snow for several minutes. The eagle beat a hasty retreat, leaving behind the battered and much frightened canine.

GRAND JURY TAKES UP MORSE HOMICIDE

The bearers were relatives of the deceased. The funeral was attended by only a few persons. The interment will be in Green Mount cemetery.

Mr. Morse was a native of Barnard, where he lived for some years. Later he lived in different towns until he came to Middlesex about four years ago. Besides his mother, who lived with him, he leaves a father, Judson Morse, who lives in Barnard with another son and daughter. He also leaves a wife, Mrs. Lester Morse, who resides in Connecticut, and a brother, Darwin Morse, also of that state.

BITTER SCORING OF GRAHAM

By Attorney-General Archibald in Summing Up Prosecution

JUDGE'S CHARGE FOLLOWED

Sensational Case Was Concluded in County Court To-day.

The case of the State vs. Horace F. Graham, on the charge of embezzlement and larceny of state funds while he was auditor, was given into the hands of the jury at 11:58 this morning, following the charge to that body by Judge F. M. Butler.

"That indictment is a monument to the efficiency and faithfulness of Attorney-General Barber," said Attorney-General Archibald in resuming his argument in the Graham trial at 9 this morning. "It was the only honest thing to do, to include every order drawn," he said.

"It is the case of the apple the boy didn't know he had in his mouth." He said an honest man would draw what he was entitled to and no more. "If you are to hold the individual to the strictest honesty, why not the public official?" asked Mr. Archibald. If an attorney kept the money collected for his client he would be in danger of facing disbarment proceedings. An administrator of an estate is kept to strict accountability. He said a burglar was an honest man compared with an official who "dipped his hand into the public treasury." The burglar, he thought, "was a gentleman to be commended."

Speaking of the reputation Vermonters have for integrity, he urged the jury to see they did nothing by their verdict to rob the state of that claim. "You will not do anything to bother a Vermont if he is ever asked about the case." He trusted their verdict would be of the "high standing won by Vermont jurors."

The attorney-general dwelt at length on Mr. Graham's letter to Gen. Barber and his statement to the public. He believed the respondent should have welcomed an investigation, instead of requesting a postponement. That he "did wrong" was a "mighty mild" construction to place on acts. "Still the $10,000 was only the core of the apple he had in his mouth. I would like to know how large a mouthful he would have to have before it would choke him," said Mr. Archibald.

He characterized the defense's claim of "no criminal intent" as a "flimsy excuse." He thought if a public official could dip in and take $27,000 as they claimed over a course of 14 years, at the rate of $2,000 a year, and get away with it, all he had to say was, "God save the state of Vermont."

He asked the jury to excuse his bluntness of speech. He did not have the command of language like Brother Stickney. He called it "spasmodic" and not "an implement for cutting turf."

The attorney-general used strong language when he characterized as "absolutely false" certain statements the defendant made on the witness stand. "Every admission was in his own favor," said the speaker. "He admitted that a copy of this resolution he spread on our records, a copy mailed to the city of Barre, and a copy published in the Barre Daily Times."

Whereas, the trustees of the Barre war chest have proposed the balance of the funds of Barre post, No. 10, American Legion.

Resolved, that a vote of appreciation and thanks be extended to the trustees of the Barre war chest, and all who have contributed to it, for this generous and patriotic gift, and for the cheerfulness and the promptness with which they resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread on our records, a copy be sent to the trustees of the Barre war chest, and a copy be published in the Barre Daily Times.

The clubhouse committee was instructed to sign a check for the balance of the funds of Barre post, No. 10, American Legion, and to proceed with the remodeling necessary to prepare the building for occupancy.

A resolution regarding draft dodgers and slackers was presented by a committee and unanimously passed as follows:

Be it resolved, that Barre post, No. 10, concurring in the action taken at the Minneapolis convention, Nov. 11, 1919, goes on record as favoring immediate and drastic action in the prosecution of all cases of draft dodgers and slackers, and that the further recommendations action already taken along those lines.

Be it further resolved, that the officers and members of Barre post, No. 10, be directed to assist federal authorities to this end to the limit of their power. The permanent closing of the home service office of the Red Cross was reported, together with Mrs. F. E. Robinson's suggestion that the office be maintained by the Legion until the final settlement of all pending cases. After discussion, it was voted that this matter be referred to the executive committee for consideration and action.

TOOK CARBOLIC BY MISTAKE.

Herbert Hill Thought It Was Cough Medicine.

was larceny. Taking money as a trespasser did not necessarily mean larceny. There must be the criminal intent.

The respondent said he believed he had the right to draw money from the state and receipt for the same and vouch for it later, and he expected to repay the balance not vouchered. He believed he had the right to use the balance in his personal accounts until he made an accounting. The court repeated all the claims of the defense in this respect. He then repeated the claims of the state that the respondent knew he had no right to take the money this way and showed felonious intent and therefore larceny. The court explained the law of embezzlement and larceny.

The court spoke about "restitution" and the "exigencies of business."

"After respondent knew he was suspected of criminal intent what he did said and he said the respondent took the stand as he had a right to do and that does not embarrass him any, but 'you are to weigh his testimony as any other witness.' He referred to his testimony that Mr. Graham had said he took the money as he thought he had a right to do. If he had that right, it would be 'not guilty' is returnable. He explained larceny and grand larceny and advised the jury that petit larceny is not to be considered in this case."

After a conference of attorneys at the bench, the court explained the large number of courts and referred to the fiscal year ending March 31, ending January, 1917, but that it is not, as far as the jury was concerned, to consider the individual counts, but as to the whole transaction as criminally committed or intended, so that the amount is not taken into consideration, instructing them again as to "guilty or not guilty."

The jury had the case at 11:58.

Attorney Brown of the Defense.

Attorney Rufus E. Brown for the defense concluded his argument yesterday afternoon, after which payments by W. B. C. Stickney for the defense. Mr. Brown said in part:

There is no doubt that the envelope Mr. Graham left in the treasury contained the money which testimony showed it did. Mr. Brown referred to May 18 and said that the money was made, as shown by the treasurer's receipts. On June 15 was another payment.
